May 17 Date For New Lenox Sewer Bond Election

Whether New Lenox is to have a sanitary sewer system will be determined by the voters of that village at a special election called for May 17.

On that date the electors will be asked to approve a $200,000 issue of general obligation bonds to meet a part of the cost of the proposed improvement. It is estimated the cost of the program will be approximately $500,000. Originally the village board had plans for a central water system as well as the sanitary sewer for a combined cost of some $900,000. Investment security firms, however, believed the total cost too much for the number of users and elected to take only bonds covering the sewer system. All homes in New Lenox are serviced with water, either from the householder's own well, a neighbor's well or in a few instances from the supply of a private utility firm. But the village is without sewers. There are septic tanks of a sort, it was pointed out, but it is claimed they are inadequate to the needs.

The bond houses consider the sewer system a necessity now and several firms submitted bids at a meeting of the village board last Thursday night. After considering all the angles the board decided to award the bonds to a syndicate headed by Morrissey and Co. of Davenport, Ia.

The group will take the $200,000 of G.O. bonds at 5.5 % interest and the revenue issue of approximately $300,000 at 5.875 %.

As implied by the name general obligation bonds are paid out of taxes. Revenue bonds are paid out service charges imposed by the village.

Besides the sewer system the project also calls for erection of a sewage treatment plant. As matters stand now, it was brought out, considerable raw sewage finds its way into Hickory creek in violation of a state law.

The treatment plant and sewer system, it was said, are designed to take care of a population of from one to five thousand.

Bond men and engineers estimate that the cost for sewer service will cost a household approximately $5 a month.

Begin Work On Building For 4-H Fair

Work was begun Tuesday of this week on the first building to be erected by the Will County 4-H clubs on their own fairgrounds.

This is a dream coming true that was held for many years by the late Fred A. Francis, New Lenox supervisor, who was one of the original organizers in 4-H work.

After his death his widow donated a tract of ground on Francis road, across from the old Francis homestead, that the 4-H'ers might have their own quarters in which to conduct their fairs.

Glen Vally, New Lenox lumber dealer who is chairman of the building and grounds committee for the project, announced Tuesday that work had been started on the utility building and that by the time the fair is held in August it is expected that two barns will also be completed.

The utility building provides for rest rooms, offices, and a refreshment concession. When completed there will be four barns and also a large administration building that will serve for large meetings and various 4-H competitions.

A large part of the work and the material is being donated, Mr. Vally said. The utility building is of concrete block construction and so designed that it can be veneered with brick at some future date. An outdoor fireplace is also being built.

It is estimated that the program will cost about $100,000 and approximately $21,000 of this has been raised thru public subscriptions and donations from the earnings of various 4-H clubs.

PLACES THIRD--Christine Stanisz, 7th grade pupil at St. Mary's, Mokena, placed third in the annual Will County spelling bee held at Pershing school last Saturday. She received a wrist watch and pen and pencil set. Miss Stanisz is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stanisz, First street, Mokena.

Haakinson who was second with 265 and Paul Lambrecht with 257. There were two others in the race, Kenneth Waldvogel who polled 231 votes and Walter Mark, an incumbent, with 183. Rural Patrons To Receive Better Phone Service

Illinois Bell has proposed to the Illinois Commerce Commission an optional four-party service for rural area customers in about 170 of its Illinois exchanges, including Orland, according to W.T. Clarke, telephone manager for this area. The new service would be offered only in those exchanges where eight-party rural service also will be available. "Many customers have asked that a higher quality service for people in rural areas be offered," Clarke said. "We are going ahead without plans to offer it, even though we know that it will take some time to provide the additional equipment required. The time needed will vary depending on the availability of equipment and there may be delays in some cases."

The new rural service will only contemplate four parties on the line, instead of 8, said Clarke. Also, each customer will hear only his own ring instead of hearing at least the ring for one other party on his line in addition to his own.

Town Adopts Dog Ordinance At Annual Meeting

At the annual town meeting of Frankfort township held last week at the Cooper-Hostert garage, Mokena, an ordinance was adopted to control stray dogs. A warden is to be named later and the pound at Joliet will be used to keep the dogs.

Dogs will be kept five days and if not claimed in that time will be destroyed. Owners will be required to pay the town clerk the cost of impounding. Costs will run from $5 to $25. The ordinance is effective now, according to Town Clerk Harold Cooper.

The annual report shows that $7,880 was spent from the town fund leaving a balance there of $4,121; $745 was expended for relief leaving a balance of $7,110 and $16,444 was spent out of the road and bridge fund which leaves a balance there of $2,145.

The purpose of the production is to raise funds for the purchase of an organ for the Lincoln-Way music department, Robert Taylor, instructor in the Lincoln-Way music department, stated that $400 has been received in the organ fund, but an addition of $800 is needed to make the actual purchase of an organ.

On his way to film Angkor Wat ruins in Cambodia his jeep broke down and he spent two weeks in a small Ino-Chinese village, living on rice, tea, and fish. He was the guest of a family of Sikhs in India, and traveled with a tribe of Aborigines on a "walk-around" in Australia.

The piano has been placed in the church parlor where the choir rehearse and thus her memory abides thru music.

Foreign Competition

Recent dispatches relating to cutbacks in steel and auto productions should not come as a surprise for those who have been watching the news from Washington.

Congressman Noah Mason, Republican from the 15th Illinois district, has given warning from time to time that we have been building up foreign nations at great cost to our own economy.

As an example he says the government has been selling U.S. cotton to foreign mills at eight cents a pound or $40 a bale less than American manufacturers must pay for the same material.

This has given foreign textile firms a considerable advantage, especially when one considers the higher wages and the protection accorded workers here as opposed to conditions abroad.

Mason says that the average American wage in the textile mills is $1.50 an hour. Our goods must compete against imports from England where wages are 60 cents an hour; from Japan where wages are 20 cents an hour and China where 10 cents an hour is the average pay in the textile field.

On top of this preferential treatment we also are lading out foreign aid.

Great Britain and other European nations claim to be free trade nations but they curb our imports by imposing quotas and other restrictions that leave us holding the bag.

We have spent billions rebuilding European factories since World War II with the result that those countries are having an unprecedented prosperity while we are having trouble.

Our market is being invaded by foreign goods that can be sold for substantially less than ours. To compete with this situation some American firms are setting up shop abroad. IBM is making its products in France; Remington Rand is building portable typewriters in Holland; International Harvester and Ford have plants in England. Ford also is in Germany. These examples are only a few of American firms going abroad to take advantage of the cheap labor market.

Some of the U. S. firms with plants abroad can bring their products into this country and sell them cheaper than the goods they manufacture here. Steel also is being imported. An example of this is a utility firm that is buying fabricated steel for highline towers from Italy. The material is delivered in the U.S. ready to be erected at a price said to be substantially less than they would cost if produced and fabricated here.

It is to be hoped that something can be done to remedy the situation.

On Second Tho't

The thought has struck me -- as it probably has you -- what in the name of the seven brass hinges of the hot place is going to be done with the conglomeration of figures and information now being collected in the name of the census?

That we are a nation of suckers of the survey is widely known and worked upon. Someone is always taking a survey for something, by phone or in persons. Some outfits even write to occupants or boxholders.

I can't tell you who started this survey madness. Probably the only way to find out would be to conduct a survey. Radio and TV surveys of listeners for the alleged purpose of establishing how many a show or character is supposed to have can be blamed for giving surveys more standing but while these two mediums can be charged with a lot of things one must be fair. Radio and TV did not start the survey racket.

Political pollsters were with us long before Marconi invented the wireless or DeForest the radio tube.

Radio and TV ratings have served, however, to make the public more survey conscious and so an easier prey to the statistical witch doctors in the employ of manufacturers, industrialists, public relations firms, advertising agencies and of course -- naturally of course -- the government.

There was a time when about the only need for off-beat statistics was by firms who specialize in making up short fillers for the newspaper and magazine trade. You've seen them many times -- those one, two, sometimes three or four lines items that are slipped into eliminate white space in spots where a story ends and where a story ends and there is not room to start another. They are terse and to the point and because the easiest way to be terse and to the point is to be statistical.

All newspaper readers know what fillers are and if one could just remember all the information they contain he would be a whizz on any quiz show -- even if it was on the level.

By pursuing fillers one may gain considerable information on the flora and fauna of the world, as well as geography, history and customs and traditions of various peoples.

One is informed at a glance, for instance, that jackrabbits are not heavy water drinkers; the conger eel lays millions of eggs in a fantastically short period; how big is an eagle's nest; the depth of snow in the Himalayan passes; the length -- in feet, sometimes inches -- of the Great Wall of China; the dietary peculiarities of Polynesians, tigers and sharks -- loan and seagoing. One may also pick up interesting sidelights on the habits of seagulls, muskrats or wild horses and hundreds of other things that if remembered and repeated at social gatherings will enable such a person to become one of the prize bores of the year.

It may be that these filler makers acquire some of their statistics from the old files of the census bureau. The census bureau files should be wonderful for this purpose as they should be filled with information for which the public is panting.

This year the census bureau is dropping off a questionnaire at every fourth household and some of the questions are really dillies.

The bureau also is showing some curiosity as to how the American public is fixed for bedrooms. If one doesn't have a bedroom there is a place on the return to report where he can sling a hammock. The bureau also wants to know about bathrooms, hot and cold running water, and home elevators. Why elevators in a land covered by ranch type homes is a mystery but its there.

You can see how this material would lend itself to fillers -- such as 189,312 out of 190 million Americans do not sleep in bedrooms or -- 17,344,612 persons in the United States are without bathtubs or -- most Americans live in homes that have no elevators and many, many more.

Down in the moonshine areas in the southern hills census takers probably travel in calliopes with big signs identifying their mission.

ASC Reminds Farmers Of Acreage Limitation Rules

Every farmer who has cropland under a Conservation Reserve contract this year must be sure to comply with any acreage allotments on the farm and also to observe his permitted acreage of Soil Bank base crops, Roy M. Smith, Chairman, of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said today. Generally speaking, Mr. Smith said, the permitted acreage on a Soil Bank farm is the amount of land on which grains and row crops may be produced. It consists of the historical acreage of such crops less the amount of land placed in the Conservation Reserve. A farmer who exceeds this permitted acreage or any acreage allotment on the farm may lose his annual rental payment and also be subject to a civil penalty. When all eligible cropland on a farm is in the Soil Bank, the permitted acreage is zero, the ASC official said. The home garden area on such a farm may be used to produce crops for home use. Ineligible land on such farms may be used for forestry production or pasture. Hay cannot be harvested from ineligible land, and production of any Soil Bank base crop on the farm would be a contract violation.

Plan Better Service For Phone Users

Illinois Bell has proposed to the Illinois commerce commission an optional four-party service for rural area customers in about 170 of its Illinois exchanges, including Mokena, New Lenox and Frankfort, according to Miss Jane Voltz telephone manager for this area. The new service would be offered only in those exchanges where eight-party rural service also will be available.

"Many customers have asked that a higher quality service for people in rural areas be offered," Miss Voltz said. "We are going ahead with our plans to offer it, even though we know that it will take some time to provide the additional equipment required. The time needed will vary depending on the availability of equipment, and there may be delays in some cases."

The new rural service will only contemplate four parties on the line, instead of 8, said Miss Voltz. Also, each customer will hear only his own ring instead of hearing at least the ring for one other party on his line in addition to his own.

Present rural subscribers who elect the new 4-party rural service in the Mokena exchange also will have substantially more, phones included in their toll-free calling area. They will have the same enlarged calling area as do present Metropolitan Service customers.

If the company's proposal is approved, basic monthly charges for the new 4-party rural service in Mokena would be $4 for residence and $8 for business customers who live within one mile of the base rate area. (This is the more densely populated area of an exchange within which urban-type service is provided without a mileage charge.) Four-party rural service customers living between 1 and 3 miles from the base rate area would pay $1 a month more; and customers living over 3 miles away would pay $1.50 a month more.

Present 8-party rural service would continue to be offered, said Miss Voltz, with no change in the monthly charge for this service.

Hints For Homeowners

by
James Fizzell
Cook Co. Asst. Farm
Adviser

Proper lawn care is a year-around job, but starting a lawn off in good condition in the early spring is important.

As soon as the upper inch of soil is dry enough to crumble in your hand, the lawn should be rolled. Rolling firms the sod which has been heaved up during the winter. The roller should not weigh over 100 pounds for each foot or roller width. Too heavy a roller, or rolling when the soil is too wet causes compaction of the soil, and prevents proper root growth.

Rake the lawn to remove debris which has accumulated during the winter. Piles of leaves, stones, sticks and other material smother the grass, leaving bare spots in which weeds and crabgrass will grow this summer.

Feed the lawn with a good lawn fertilizer such as 10-10-10, or 10-8-6 at the rate of 15 pounds per 1000 square feet.

Be sure to cut the grass when it begins to grow. Turf grasses grow surprisingly fast in cool weather, and may get too long before they are noticed.

The packaged rose bushes you buy this spring will be practically "fresh from the garden," thanks to a new wrapping material developed by U. S. Department of Agriculture researchers.

This new wrap is a light-weight paper coated with polyethylene which is adapted to lining shipping containers of fiberboard, wirebound veneer or nailed wooden containers.

This wrap was developed because growers had difficulty in keeping rose plants properly moist in other packaging materials. Too little moisture dried out the plants, too much made them rot.

Research studies have shown that healthy rose plants that have been dipped in fungicide solution and then packaged in the new polyethylene-coated wrapper will remain healthy in the package for at least five months.

This new wrap is rather inexpensive and, since it helps to reduce loss of rose plants in market channels from the nursery to the consumer, its use should not increase the marketing costs of rose plants.

Look for this new wrap when you buy garden roses. The label on the package listing variety name and planting instructions for the rose will also mention the protective polyethylene wrapper if it is used.

All reputable rose nurseries strive to offer rose plants of the highest quality to rose gardeners. Use of this new wrap will help toward this end.

Bettenhausen Is Second At New Jersey, Ward Wins 100

Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park race driver, finished a close second in the opening of the big car race season at Trenton, N.J., last week-end. He finished second to Roger Ward, last year's Indianapolis '500 winner.

Tony finished the race with his car running on only three cylinders. Even at that, he was just seconds behind the winner, Roger Ward. Last year Tony beat Roger at the Trenton 100. This might be a good sign of things to come this year—Ward winning the Trenton race.

Tony was extremely well pleased with the Lindsay-Hopkins car. He said that it had real speed. He completed one lap near the 150-miles per hour average. He felt that he could easily get out 150-miles per hour at Indianapolis if the car continues in the present condition.

The actual speed of the car and performance make the hopes race for the 500 which is not more than six weeks away, fact it won't be long before the cars will be buzzing in preparation for the big race of the year.

Another race or two will precede the 500, but already it is the topic of conversation among the racing fans. They are beginning the conjecture about who will win the crown this year. Many feel that it will be Roger Ward for the second straight time.

This could be Tony's last if the Lindsay-Hopkins Special is set and running smoothly for May 30. Tony will have plenty of speed which he did not have in the Hoover Special that he drove into a fourth place finish last year.

The Ansted-Rotary Special, an extremely fast car, was demolished before the trials started. This must be the year or there will not be too many left.

Seven Area Boys Reach AAU Finals; Five Win Championships At State

Seven area high school wrestling champs reached the finals of the Illinois AAU wrestling tournament last week-end. Five of the boys brought home crowns, Elwood Zitter, Lincoln-Way co-captain in the 1958, won his third state AAU championship in three years. He did not compete last year. Thus he has won three in three tries.

Wayne Jackson, a current Bremen high school star, beat Romeo Casino for the 100-pound crown. Jackson was right at the top in the state high school wrestling competition this past year. He graduates in June.

Zitter won the 108-pound class. Warren Semetis, 1956 Carl Sandburg great, beat Bee Floyd, 7-0 in capturing the 128-pound division. Semetis was one of Sandburg great wrestlers. The Eagles always turn out a couple of excellent ones in the course of a year. Three ex-Sandburg wrestlers reached the finals, two won.

Dave Gibson nosed out Karle Harootunian, 7-6, for the 145 pound championship. Gibson went down state with Carl Sandburg high school last year.

In the only match that pitted two area boys—it went to the form of the past, Ken Houston beat Allen Jaklick, 3-0. Ken is from Oak Lawn and Al is an alumnus of Sandburg.

Al and Ken met often in their high school careers. Ken usually won in a rugged hard fought match. The scores were usually, 2-1, or 1-0. But Ken took Al again, this time 3-0.

Robert Penner, currently Bremen high schooler, was beaten by Fred Annegers 5-3 in the 115-pound competition. Penner should graduate this June with teammate Jackson.

Swayne Holds Reavis To 3 Hits As Eagles Win 6 - 2

Sandburg diminutive right hander, Bud Swayne, hit mid-season form when he just missed a shot-out over the Reavis Rams in the SWS opener. Bud gave the Rams three hits, but not scattered too well.

However, it was shoddy fielding that netted the two runs for the Reavis team that spoiled Swayne's bit for a whitewash job in the first league engagement. The Eagles dropped the non-conference opening engagement with Blue Island last week, 7-3. Junior, Bob McKim started the pitching in this one and was hit rather consistently.

It is no secret that Eagle Coach, Hank Meier, is expecting Swayne to carry the load which was shouldered so well by rubber-arm Phil Yurtis last year, when Sandburg brought home its first baseball crown to the bluff.

Well, Bud did just what Hank wanted, he brought home the first victory and did it in fine style. In fact, could you ask for a better opening day assignment, with so little time for practice.

Reavis collected one earned run, but it should have been cut-off at the plate, but young Eagle receiver, Randy Cernak, dropped the ball in the play. However, this was not damaging as the Sandburg bats boomed out 8 hits and this was good for six runs.

It seems that the Eagles are started off on the same track that brought them the crown last year. It was rare when they collected a large amount of hits, but every time they got a man on base, they seemed to get him home. Those runs win the games.

Hank Meier is hope for that same kind of run scoring consistency this season. "If we can get that consistency again this year... I think we can win the title" was the substance of Hank's early season remarks. It appears that he got it in the first game.

The third base problem may well be solved for Meier. Dick Barry did a good job at the hot corner against the Rams and picked up two of the eight Eagles safeties.

Three Sandburg players accounted for six of the eight hits garnered. Duane Erickson, first baseman, and John Neal, left fielder, were the other two clouters for the blue and gold.

Certainly, the climate is more optimistic at Sandburg than it was after the 7-3 loss to the Cardinals of Blue Island. Reavis is not considered the toughest assignment in the SWS baseball, but they usually have a few lads who can hit the ball and Swayne held them in check and got the Eagles off on the right foot to victory number one.

To make things look even better, Swayne struck out the last four batters, finishing much stronger than the way he started.

The Eagles hit attack was a burst of extra base hitting. Erickson had a pair of doubles, Barry connected for a double and a triple. Ted LaVine and Neal had two base knocks. Five of the Eagles eight hits were for more than one base.

Browsing Through The Cold Stove League

BY DEAN DALLAS

Semmler Press Sports Editor

Ray Meyer, basketball coach at DePaul University, mentioned at the Lincoln-Way high school athletic banquet that George Mikan made him a great coach. There are many who would debate that with Ray, for he has consistently turned out fine teams without the fabulous recruiting plans of many other schools.

Meyer touched on a subject that has intrigued the Monday morning quarterbacks for ages. Does a coach make a team or does a team make a coach.

A spectator remarked that fifty coaches could have guided Marshall high school to the state championship. Possibly, fifty coaches could have done the job, but this would have to be a hand picked number of men. There are probably 50 of them in Illinois.

Yes, a coach needs the horses to win the race, but the horses have to learn how and when to run. There are a few naturals, but in most cases they have to learn from someone who knows the science of the contest; the fine points that make the difference between being real good and championship play.

Meyer had to develop the gangling, awkward Mikan, who had failed to impress high school coaches. Probably, one of the most important things that a coach must have is that certain ability to discern whether or not an unimpressive fellow has the desire, native ability, etc. to develop or to even spend the time trying to develop.

Second, the coach must be a handler of men. The juvenile is the most difficult, in some ways, to handle. They are seeking for answers, and today are hoping to find the short cut to championship play -- without work. Esprit de corpse is a most important item in a clubs drive for winning. Even if a club is not a winner, it is most important in a young man's learning to play the game.

Then a coach must be some sort of psychologist. He must come to know the temperament of each of his lads. He must know how they will react under certain situations. Should this boy thrive under pressure or should this star be taken out in the time of heavy pressure? These are questions that he must answer correctly if he will win.

Chance can play a part in all of this, but a consistent winner has to have a coach that is finding the combinations that unlocks the store of talent in these areas.

One could go on and enumerate more than this. Now you can understand why one-half of a high school coaches pay check goes to the doctor (that is where the public puts terrific pressure on) for ulcer treatment. The most successful coach is now the three ulcer coach! Either cut doctor's fees or raise the pay of the coach. He must feed his ulcer.

It takes both the coach and the team to make a winner. When one part of this team is limping the entire program breaks down. To be a champion it takes both great coaching and fine material. But material can usually be found that will give a good account of itself if the coaching is up to par or super par.

Board Busy On 1960-61 Budget Plan

The New Lenox village board is now in the process of drafting its 1960-61 appropriation ordinance and indications are that it will run approximately $61,000 as compared to $69,440 last year.

There is a possibility, however, that the total figure may include the half million dollars needed to cover the cost of the proposed sewer system. According to law money cannot be spent by a taxing body without an appropriation and inasmuch as the village board expects to pass the ordinance at its meeting May 4 the proposed sewer cost may have to be included in anticipation of approval of a $200,000 general obligation bond issue on May 17, it was stated. Village Attorney William Penn is looking up cases to determine this point.

Last year the amount raised for village expenditures thru general taxation was $11,440 and it is expected that the amount will be about the same this year. There is no change in the general tax rate. Fines, licenses, funds from the state and other sources give the village additional funds.

The village plans to again appropriate money for the youth summer recreation program. The amount this year will be $600.

According to figures introduced at the board meeting last week the cash balance on hand at the close of the current fiscal year will be about $17,500 and revenues, for the year are figured at about $40,000 so there should be approximately $58,000 cash available for 1960-61.

Green Garden

Nels Johnson Recovering From Serious Accident

MRS. KATHERINE HEISNER
Tel. Frankfort 5187

Nels Johnson, 36, of Green Garden is recuperating in St. James Hospital, Chicago Heights, from severe injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

He has been a patient for four weeks and will be there another four weeks according to his wife due to his injuries. He has several fractured ribs, broken collar bone, right hip, right ankle, right arm at wrist and his left leg is broken in 8 places. Due to the fractured ribs his left lung collapsed and he was under oxygen for 9 days and is now in traction. A finger on his left hand may have to be amputated.

It is believed that the tie rods of the steering wheel became loose or broke causing him to loose control of the car and hit a bridge abutment on Staeger road near Ridgeland Avenue. He was returning from Steger around 2:30 in the afternoon, March 12. Neighbors hearing his screams helped pry him loose from the front seat of the car and was later removed to the hospital in an ambulance.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and four children moved to this area last September from Riverdale where he is employed at the Great Lakes Screw Products company. Mrs. Johnson is most grateful for the many acts of kindness shown them by the families in her area at

Aid Program For Mental Health

Mental health week, will be May 1 - May 7, 1960, featuring the 2nd big year of Operation Friendship. Governors and mayors all over the nation are proclaiming the period as the time for the public to look to the mentally ill.

Mental illness knows no barriers it was pointed out, it strikes the rich, the poor, the young and old alike. It knows no race, color or creed. It's toll is tremendous. It hospitalizes more than all the other diseases combined. And outside the hospital, 1 in 10 are in need of psychiatric care. But with good care, the mentally ill can recover.

SOIL SAMPLING

Soil sampling and testing were topics discussed at the second 4-H conservation school, held last Thursday evening April 7. The meeting, held for 4-H'ers, leaders and friends, was at the Will county farm bureau conference room, Joliet.

A. A. Wicklein, Will county farm adviser, presented ways to collect good soil samples. He pointed out that by not taking a good sample ruins the value of an accurate test. Mrs. Lureno Seltsinger, Will county farm bureau soil tester, demonstrated the steps in testing samples for amount of lime, phosphorous, and potassium available for plant growth.

Joe Jopek, Will county assistant farm adviser, talked on the causes of soil acidity. The most common cause in this area, he said, is due to leaching of the soil by rain and snow.

This meeting, the second of four, is a joint venture of Will and South Cook counties extension service

Van Cliburn Enthralls Chicago Concert Audience

MRS. MARGARET SEMMLER
Mokena 5561

Mrs. Lydia Ryan attended the annual offering of the Chicago Symphony orchestra of the rendition of "The Death and Transfiguration" held in the orchestra hall, last Friday afternoon. It was an hour duration and was played to a packed house. Following intermission another hour of wonderful music was greatly appreciated when young Van Cliburn, The United States own outstanding pianist, played the difficult concerto of Brahms' major in B flat, which has only heretofore been given by well experienced artist. Van Cliburn rendered the complete concerto with apparent ease and enjoyment. It will be recalled that Van Cliburn won the first international Tchaikovsky competition in Moscow in 1958. The 23 year old pianist from Kilgore Texas, received acclaim at that time in which the critics stated: "not within living memory has a musician, regardless of nationality, had such an impact on the critical, sophisticated Soviet metropolitan audiences."
